SATISFIED WITH HIS DAY'S WORK.

Mr. Dennett was, however, thoroughly satisfied with his day's work among the East Side saloons. He found that they were practically all closed during the whole of the day. He spoke in praise of the every desire to keep within the bounds of the law. He added:

"There is no doubt whatever that to-day has been the driest day we have had yet, and if to-day's for anything better under the present condition of to-day, and out of the 300 saloons which I visited, I only gained admission to three-only per cent, you see. And it was only after pitching

I have never seen anything like it, and it surpassed my most sanguine expectations. The saloons that I was admitted to were in the Union Market and Madison-st. precincts, but, mind you, the police in these districts were thoroughly doing their duty; in fact, the police vigilant to-day than upon any previous Sunday but to-day, with the exception of a few isolated and I know what I am talking about-I could get a drink easier in the prohibition State of New drink easier in the prohibition State of New-Hampshire than in New-York to-day. I saw many people trying to get in at side doors, but without avail. I saw one woman go to six side doors, and, after remarking to another woman, "Whoever thought it would come to this, Maggie?" she gave it up in disgust. I did not see a single beer can about the streets, and although some of the win-dow curtains were down, I satisfied myself that those saloons were not doing business. James Breen, who lives at No. 26 Monroe-st., and has lived in the same street forty-one years, told me he had never seen so dry a Sunday. LIQUOR-SELLERS NOT OPPOSED TO SUNDAY

"During the last few days I have had talks with a good many saloon-keepers, and I am confident that the greater proportion of them are not averse They admit, of course, that Roosevelt is on top, and that while their gross receipts are not so much, this is offset by other considerations. A well-known saloon-keeper said to me yesterday: I like Sunday closing. I find my bartenders work better during the week. I am not visited by ward men who are getting up subscriptions for some cause or other. I don't have to buy Hollywood whiskey. I don't have troops of Indians from the Comanche, Iroquois and other tribes come round once a week and ask me to buy sworth of chowder tickets; in fact, I am more independent than ever before in my experience. And I think the majority of the saloon-keepers in this city are of the same opinion. Roosevelt is on top, and that while their gross re

At Harlem Court, Magistrate Mott held Ferrara for trial in spate of the protests of Ferrara's lawyer. #### NEED OF THE SPY SYSTEM.

A SERMON ILLUSTRATED BY A POLICE COURT EXPERIENCE.

THE REV. JOHN B. DEVINS, OF HOPE CHAPEL

ower New-York was the Rev. John B. Devins, of This chapel is a branch of the Fourth Avenue Pres byterian Church. It is in nearly the centre of the Thirteenth Precinct, which contains more than two nundred and fifty saloons, according to the state the chapel building, in which the pastor's family

Taking for his text last evening the words of one the land of Canann, "The Lord is with us; fear them not," Mr. Devins said in part:

snowd it not be considered as a metinol of harms out good? Cateb and Joshua, the Hebrew splessent to Canaan, were manly men. They felt the truth of the text, "The Lord is with us; fear them not." What if the multitude turned against them? God was with them. What if they lost good friends? The Friend who sticketh closer than a brother had not turned his back. What if their lives were threatened, of whom should they be afraid? There were difficulties in their path. They were not rash men. They counted the cost. They trusted in God and they did not fear. They felt the thrill of victory thirty-eight years before the walls of Jericho feal. They knew that they were making history. They were walking by faith, not in themselves, but in the God who had delivered them safely from many dangers, and who would not desert them then. He did not. These two men, of all the twe-ve spies, of all the adults who left Egypt, entered the Land of Promise.

cide must be brought to court in order to secure a conviction.

There is need of the spy system also in order to aid the Police Department in keeping its officers alert. To-day a complaint was made in writing against a saloon not far from this chapel which was open for business as usual to men, women end children. The officer sent to make an arrest, if he saw the law violated, handed the complaint to the saloon-keeper. If he recognized the writing, the persons who alded the police in doing their duty will be the sufferer instead of the man breaking the law.

There is danger that threats on the one hand, or failure to secure conviction on the other, will determany citizens from doing their duty at this time. A city official is reported to have said that the minister who reported to the police that men were seen entering the side door of his saloon on Sunday, would hear from him in a way that would startle him if he did not stop annoying him. He has denied personally that he made such a threat, but the published interview still stands without a denial. But the Christian minister who is conscious of simply doing his duty who would swerve a hair-sbreadth because of such a threat, or of others that have been received, would better leave the ministry and retire to some quiet place where there are no foes to face. What is wanted elso are Christian laymen who will throw their whole influence on the side of right and God, regardless of consequences.

A furious fight took place on a car of the Eagle Rock Division of the Suburban Traction Company on Saturday night. It took place near the spot where the disastrous accident occurred a year ago. When the car left Eagle Rock it was crowded to excess, and among the passengers were five men who had drank just enough to make them ugly. Soon after the car started these men began a quarrel that ended in a fight. The car was crowded with women, who were thrown into great excitement. Three of them fainted, and one gave way to hysterics, and was taken to the hospital. Three of the men were arrested by Policeman McCarrick, of West Grange. The curious part of the story is that when the officer brought the men to the station he did not know anything about them, nor could hemake any charge. He has been suspended by Captain Bamford. Superintendent Tidman, of the road, has deeded to put special officers in citizens' clothes on the cars.
